

Fleet Forces Command Update
2017 Budget Briefing and the Economic Impact on Hampton Roads
In Depth Analysis from Top Military TV Commentator

With over 40% of the region's economy tied to the spending decisions made in Washington, D.C., the Hampton Roads Chamber is proud to provide three outstanding speakers on defense spending, operations and the state of our military. Whether it is the design of the stunning aircraft carriers, repair of our fleet, or the training of our amazing servicemen and women protecting this nation, the Chamber is on the front lines advocating for businesses large and small.

Past Speakers Have Included:

Tony (AJ) Tata, retired Army General and American novelist, whose expertise focuses on military life and national defense policies, will be presenting as well as signing his book before and after the event. Tata is the author of "Three Minutes to Midnight," and has appeared frequently as a guest commentator on Fox News' The O'Reilly Factor, America's Newsroom, Fox and Friends and other national media venues.

Mark Honecker, Executive Director/Chief of Staff, U.S. Fleet Forces Command will be briefing on the Fleet Forces Command Operations and what they are doing around the world and subsequent impacts upon the Hampton Roads economy.

John Simmons of The Roosevelt Group, a bipartisan government relations consulting firm, will be discussing the proposed 2017 Department of Defense budget and its impact on the military and Hampton Roads.
